

W. P. WALTON.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For President,
WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN,
Of Nebraska.

For Vice-President,
ADLAI E. STEVENSON,
Of Illinois.

For Governor,
J. C. W. BECKHAM,
Of Nelson.

For Congress,
GEORGE G. GILBERT,
Of Shelby.

WHILE the recent epidemic of mob violence in the North is to be regretted by lovers of law and order, it is an evil from which much good should come. It confirms the fact, well-known before, that the Anglo-Saxon, no matter where his location may be, will not tolerate a transgression of his rights by the Negro, and in aggravated cases, will not brook the "law's delay." Having shown that when confronted with the same provocation from the Negro, that they will go to as great or greater extremes than their brethren of the South, the Northern people will now surely stop their course on this score, and possibly realize that their efforts toward the solution of the Negro problem have been along the wrong lines and that they have made a mistake in condemning the white man in every case of trouble, without so much as considering the provocation or even censuring the Negro for his outrageous conduct.

The Negro is the most serious problem that has confronted the republic and has brought more woes than all others combined. It is the duty of the North to use its best efforts toward the correct solution of this problem, for it is a curse which it originally brought on the country by engaging us in the nefarious slave traffic, and it prolonged the institution of slavery by throttling the many early efforts of the South to abolish it. When Jefferson penned the declaration of independence he carried to its logical conclusion the immortal statement that all men are born free and equal by making the encouragement of the African slave trade one of the grounds of complaint against the British king, but this provision was stricken out by the Northern members on the ground that their section was largely engaged in the traffic and for years after the adoption of the constitution, the North or economic reasons, did all in its power to encourage the institution of slavery in the South, and every aspiring politician of that section was careful to advertise the fact that he was a Northern man with Southern principles. When the North saw, and not until then, that the Negro was no longer causing an influx of dollars into its pockets, it undertook to emancipate him, in violation of a principle which it was mainly instrumental in having inserted in the constitution.

After the Negro was freed, the North made the mistake of giving him the right of suffrage, for which he was in no wise fitted, and it has kept up strife between him and those among whom this lot is cast from the stormy days of reconstruction to this good hour. It has always insisted that it is better qualified to deal with the problem by theory than those confronted with it as a stern condition. Its facts are drawn from the pages of such misleading literature as Uncle Tom's Cabin, while the fiction of Thomas Nelson Page and his school, which portrays the situation as correct as a photograph, makes no impression whatever, and the North's sons actually thwart the efforts of the Southern philanthropist by persuading the Negro that he is actuated by sinister motives. In short, we have in the Negro a many rooted evil, the creature to a great extent of the North's love of money and its hatred of the South.

The truth of the matter is that the South, which has always been the Negro's friend, is, according to him, the best treatment to which he is entitled, and doing all it can to improve him and to associate him with as little friction as possible. On account of its close contact of years, it best understands the solution of the problem which he has created, and in the adjustment of the difficulties arising therefrom is entitled to the hearty cooperation, instead of the antagonism of the North.

If a reflection over its recent troubles will cause the North to realize the truthfulness of these assertions and to shape its conduct accordingly hereafter, then the shedding of blood by its recent mobs, will not have been in vain.

If the celebrated Hague conference has had any effect in bringing an unusual peace, as was predicted when it closed, it is horrible to contemplate what the condition of the world would have been, if the conference had not been held.

IN his accounts covering the $10,000 turned over to him by the Taylor administration, Gen. Dan Collier returns items for $600 worth of onions and 34 tons of rice. The Hopkinsville Kentuckian figures on these returns that each soldier during the first 40 days must have eaten 41 onions a day, and during the last 60 days there were 18 onions for each soldier, while 34 tons of rice boiled down would dam the Ohio river or fill the custom house in Louisville about three times. There is also an item of 4,000 sides of bacon, or 10 sides a day for the 400 soldiers during the first 40 days and 49 sides a day during the last 60 days. This would be nearly half a side of bacon a day for each soldier during the last 60 days. Besides there was an item of $265 worth of whisky, in addition to numerous "prescriptions" of $2.50 each. Gen. Collier should cut and come again. He gave the soldiers too many onions, too much rice and an over supply of bacon, but is short on whisky. To have gotten his "soldiers" up to the fighting point would have required a great deal more bag juice than he reports.

WE have received from the entomologist of the agricultural department at Washington, a treatise on mosquitoes, in which it is shown that 250 varieties of the insect murderers exist. It says the most voracious and vicious of the species is the one that holds forth in Alaska, the Jersey variety coming next. That may be, but if there is any variety that can out sting the one that flies by night in Louisville and make a man long for death, even in its most aggravated form, we hope we may never live to see and feel it.

ELECTION bills continue to pour into the legislative hopper at Frankfort. We hope the solons will finally agree on a law to give the republicans representation on the State and county election boards, equal division of election officers and abolish the devices. It oughtn't to take a week to pass such a law and then the members could come home and hear the plaudits, "Well done, good and faithful servants."

THE Brown seem to be bossing the black republicans. Lige Seabee is the latest republican candidate to be horned off the track to make room for a Brownie by the name of Lynch, who had been nominated by the Brownies in the 23 district. Swapping horses in the middle of the stream is as bad in political as it is in practical life, and both factions may have cause to rue their action.

THE Brownies of Green county have deserted the black republicans. If all of this light set will thus atone for their yellow conduct and help the white men to rid the Blue Grass State of the dark reputation given it by the red handed assassins, who will soon be in striped suits, they will be forgiven for their shady act of desertion and arrayed in garments of many colors.

THE many poems of that genius, William J. Lampton, have been collected and will be issued by the Henry Altemus Co., Philadelphia, about the 15th in a volume to be called "Yaws and Other Things." The introduction will be written by Mr. Watterson and the work appropriately bound in cloth will be worth any man's dollar.

OF course the defaulting clerk of Fayette county is a Brownie. Straight democrats never go wrong politically or rarely wrong financially. When a man begins to bolt and claims to be better than other people, he should always be watched. The old Ladies had a mighty good proverb which said: Falsum in uno, falsum in omnibus.

YERKES opened up at Bowling Green yesterday with a flourish of trumpets and five brass bands, but he doubtless found that even the din made by them could not drown the still small voice, which kept whispering: The republicans assassinated Goebel and you and your party have endorsed all their infamous actions.

THERE is a movement on foot to organize the survivors of the Spanish-American war after the manner of the Grand Army of the Republic. It is to be hoped that the new organization will not imitate the old one by devoting its entire time to attempted raids on the treasury for pensions.

IT is said that the Shah of Persia spent $5,000 a day on his recent European tour. Such useless waste of money, every cent of which was wrung from his poor subjects by taxation, is one of the main causes of the present discontent with monarchical governments.

IN New England 44 cotton mills shut down in one day. The silly republican campaign cry of "a full dinner bucket" will have to give away to "no dinner in the bucket at all" for these poor, shut out fellows at least.

AT Hantsville, Ala., a 12 year old boy accidentally killed his father while fooling with a gun. After they are all killed, parents will quit furnishing their children with such toys.

IN previous campaigns the barrel has been the standard by which the republican corruption fund was measured, but it will be supplanted this time by the hoghead.

RICHARD CHOKER predicts Bryan's election by a large majority. We sincerely hope that he is a prophet and not a croaker.

THE prohibition candidate for president is going to beard the lion in his den by making 10 speeches in Kentucky.

THE nail trust has thrown 980 men out of employment. These men will nail the trusts when they vote.

ADJUTANT GEN. CORBIN, by whose advice McKinley nullified the law against army canteens, is out in a letter, not only defending his action, but showing that the continuance of the canteen has proved a great thing both as a promoter of temperance and an aid to good discipline. Dissertations have continually been reduced under the canteen, falling in six years from 7.7 per cent to 2.9 and trials for drunkenness have fallen off over 33 per cent. Gen. Corbin would have the people believe that the canteens, or army saloons run by consent of the government, are a blessing in disguise, but he can't fool the prohibitionists with any such chaff. They will not only continue to pray that a wine bibbing and canteen advocate president be relegated to the rear, but will put up a fight against him that will tell at the November election.

IN his speech at Bowling Green yesterday, Mr. Yerkes managed to say: "If I should be elected Governor and these cases, the assassination, come before me I will investigate them and will impartially decide them and all others, under the oath and obligations of my office." Yes, but a man generally sees things according to his predilection and Mr. Yerkes is predilected to Taylor and his army of assassins.

A CINCINNATI married woman swallowed her false teeth while asleep, but they were located by X-rays and removed before trouble ensued. It is dangerous to retire without removing false teeth, but most husbands would rather have their wives take the risk than to bear the nightly curtain lecture in the brogue which the absence of teeth produces.

THE democratic campaign was opened by speaking in every one of the 119 counties of the State yesterday. The party has on its fighting clothes and is determined to forever down the assassins and their allies and sympathizers.

THE crowd that went to hear Yerkes in Fountain Park at Bowling Green yesterday suffered a wetting for its trouble. If they stay with "Kid Glove Johnnie," however, to the end, they will suffer a deluge.

A MOTION to adjourn and go to the Shelbyville fair was adopted unanimously by the Legislature. Motions of this kind rarely call for a division.

SENATOR DEBOE is in Frankfort. His mission we presume is to see that no grammatical errors creep into the new election law.

POLITICAL.

Davis, democrat, was elected governor of Arkansas yesterday by 50,000.

Mayor Tom Taggart, of Indianapolis, promises Indiana to the democrats by 25,000.

Bryan and Roosevelt spoke from the same platform at a labor day celebration at Chicago yesterday.

Judge George Denny is a millstone about the neck of the republican party.—Lexington Standard, Negro organ.

Gov. McCreary has received word from Williamsburg of the organization of a democratic club there numbering 86 members.

Vermont will hold a State election today, but the republicans do not expect so large a plurality as they received four years ago.

Govs. Beckham and McCreary were given a great ovation at Henderson yesterday and last night a torchlight procession in their honor was given.

Bishop Henry M. Turner, of Georgia, the head of the African M. E. church, has declared for Bryan, and will make a number of speeches for the democratic ticket.

The Glasgow Times speaks of the Brown and black republican nominee for Congress in the 3d district as a "hermaphrodite," and does it doubtless advisedly.

When McKinley's supporters claim credit for the prosperity which prevails in the United States at present they reason like the fly on the cart wheel, which exclaimed: "What a dust I am raising."

Arthur Goebel will pay Dr. J. N. McCormack $10,000 for his services to Gov. Goebel after he was shot. Mr. Goebel thinks the doctor prolonged his brother's life till he could be sworn in as governor.

W. J. Bohon, of Danville, told the Cincinnati Enquirer that Bryan and Beckham are sure to carry Kentucky and that Boyle county will show up a good majority against its prize beauty, John W. Yerkes.

One of the Glasgow Times' Texas subscribers asks: "What is your opinion of John Young Brown?" The Times' plain, unvarnished opinion is that Hon. John Young Brown has severed an intestine.

The chances for a democrat to succeed Stephen B. Elkins in the Senate from West Virginia are so bright that Mr. Elkins has made up his mind not to be a candidate for re-election. His term expires next March.

Imperialism is already costing this country nearly two hundred millions a year. The doubling of that expense is only a few months away, if the people at the November election vote to continue the administration in power.

The few so-called gold democrats who cling to McKinley are hurged to the administration bosom with great warmth. The whole pile of them, though, is not worth the silence of Thomas B. Reed.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

George Fred Williams, of Boston, has inaugurated a great endless chain to secure funds for the democratic National committee. He mailed 14,000 packages of 32 circulars. Each person is requested to send 25 cents to the committee, and send the circulars to 32 others. The republicans have appealed to the postoffice authorities to stop it.

An Associated Press cable from Manila shows many discouraging conditions attending the assumption of power Sept. 1 by the Philippine commission. Many of those who desire peace and the resumption of peace are so cowardly by the armed Filipinos that they are afraid to show friendliness for the Americans or to co-operate openly in the plans for establishing civil government.

At Mt. Vernon, W. C. Mullins, chairman of the county campaign committee, organized a democratic club Saturday night, when all those present signed their names to the roll. The club starts out with a membership of 49, and this number will be increased to 150 by the next meeting. Clubs will be organized by Mr. Mullins in each of the county voting precincts. A careful poll shows that 143 democrats in the county failed to go to the polls last fall. These clubs will bring out a full vote.

Hon. James Andrew Scott told the Cincinnati Enquirer that Kentucky is sure for Bryan and Beckham and added: "We have the best campaign organizer on earth, Hon. James B. McCreary, as chairman of our State committee. He will give the republicans a Roland for their Oliver at every stage of the game, and they will not steal the State badly as they did in 1896. There should be but one issue in our State campaign and that the assassination of Gov. Goebel, for which the republican party is directly responsible, and I am in favor of making it the slogan of our campaign."

Last season's excursion to Old Point Comfort, Va. M. respectively, reaching Old Point the next afternoon. Tickets will be sold at $13 for the round-trip from Lexington, Winchester and Mt. Sterling, good returning 15 days from date of sale.
